BEAUTIFUL BALLAD.

☞ The following exquisite ballad, says the Johnstown Tribune, was written by Joseph Brennan an Irish Exile who died in new Orleans several years ago, of Consumption. It is addressed to his wife, and is touchingly beautiful:

Come to me, dearest, I'm lonely without thee;
Day-time and night-time I'm thinking about thee;
Night-time and day-time in dreams I behold thee—
Unwelcome the walking that ceases to fold thee.

Come to me, darling, my sorrows to lighten;
Come in thy beauty, to bless and to brighten;
Come in thy womanhood, meekly and lowly;
Come in thy lovingness, queenly and holy.

Swallows will flit 'round the desolate ruin,
Telling of Spring and its joyous renewing;
And thoughts of thy love, and its manifold treasure,
Are circling my heart with a promise of pleasure.

Oh, Spring of my spirit! oh, May of my bosom!
Shine out on my soul till it bourgeon and blossom;
The past of my life has a rose-root within it,
And thy fondness alone to the sunshine can win it.

Figures that move like a song through the even'—
Features lit up by a reflex of heaven—
Eyes like the skies of poor Eriu, our mother,
Where shadows and sunshine are chasing each other:—

Smiles coming seldom, but child-like and simple,
Opening their eyes from the heart of a dimple:
Oh, thanks to the Savior! that even thy seeming
Is left to the exile to brighten his dreaming.

You have been glad when you knew I was gladdened;
Dear, are you sad now to hear I am saddened?
Our hearts ever answer in tune and in time, love,
As octave to octave, and rhyme unto rhyme, love,

I cannot weep, but your tears will be flowing,—
You cannot smile but my cheek will be glowing;
I would not die without you at my side, love,
You will not linger when I shall have died, love.

Come to me, dear, ere I die of my sorrow,
Rise on my gloom like the sun of to-morrow—
Strong, swift and fond as the words which I speak, love,
With a song on your lips and a smile on your cheek, love,

Come, for my heart in your absence is weary,
Haste, for my spirit is sickened and dreary:
Come to the heart which is throbbing to press thee,
Come to the arms that would fondly caress thee.

Select Miscellany.

From the Boston Post.

Daniel Webster and John Mumma.

The Rev. Mr. Milburn relates the following anecdote of the late Daniel Webster:—

"One night, before railroads were built, he was forced to make a journey by private conveyance from Baltimore to Washington. The man who drove the wagon was such an ill-looking fellow, and told so many stories of robberies and murders, that before they had gone far Mr. Webster was somewhat alarmed. At last the wagon stopped in the midst of a dense wood, when the man, turning suddenly round to his passenger, exclaimed fiercely—"Now, sir, tell me who you are." Mr. Webster replied in a faltering voice, and ready to spring from the vehicle, "I am Daniel Webster, Member of Congress from Massachusetts." "What?" rejoined the driver, grasping him warmly by the hand, are you Webster? Thank God! Thank God! You were such an ugly chap that I took you for a a highwayman."

To the Editors of the Post:

Gentlemen—I take the above paragraph from your paper of the 27th of August.—It is not usually worth while to notice such stray anecdotes, but this is so wholly untrue, and presents Mr. Webster in so unpleasant and unbecoming a manner, that I do not like to let it pass.

I do not know the Rev. Mr. Milburn, and it is evident he did not know Mr. Webster, and has been imposed upon, or he would not have given circulation to such a story.

The real facts from which this arose are, I suppose, the following, and are not entirely uninteresting—and unlike the "anecdote," are characteristic of the man.

In May, 1813, when Mr. Webster was on his way from Portsmouth, N. H., to Washington, to take his seat for the first time in Congress, at the extra session of that year, the stage coach in which he was broke down on the road a dozen or fifteen miles North of Baltimore, in the evening. Some of the passengers returned on foot to the tavern they had left, or sought shelter in the houses along the road; some remained by the coach; but Mr. Webster walked on ahead to the nearest tavern.

On arriving at this, he stated to the landlord his name and business, and inquired if he could not procure a conveyance to take him on that night to Baltimore. The landlord undertook to furnish him one. In the meantime Mr. Webster ordered some supper, which was got ready for him in a small room, into which he was shown, and which adjoined a large bar-room. As the door was opened, every now and then by the young woman who waited on the table, he glanced into this large room, pretty well filled with people drinking and talking, and his attention was attracted to a large powerful looking man, who seemed to take the lead in general conversation and to be the great man of the crowd. After a while he inquired of the young woman who that apparently considerable person was, and was told that it was John Mumma, the butcher.

Now, in the Baltimore riots, which took place in the preceeding year, July, 1812, and in which Gen. Lingam was killed, and eight or nine other gentlemen left for dead, this John Mumma was a conspicuous leader, and took a prominent part in the assault upon and the capture of the Jail, where the unfortunate gentlemen were sent for protection, and was generally supposed to have killed Gen. Lingam himself. Of course his name was well known all over the country, and was represented and believed to be a most ferocious and dangerous ruffian.

After supper was over the landlord came in and announced a vehicle was ready at the door. Mr. Webster paid for his supper, put on his overcoat, and went out. An old-fashioned no-top gig was at the door, and a man sitting in it; and, as the landlord held up his lantern, for the night was very dark, to show Mr. Webster the step into the vehicle, who should he see for his driver but John Mumma himself! It was too late to turn back; and though he would hardly have chosen such a companion, on such an occasion,—one who had killed one man for being a Federalist, and might think well to kill another,—yet, as he used to say, he did not think that "any man could put him easily under the wheel"—he got in, and off they drove for their fifteen miles midnight trip. They proceeded at a great pace for some distance with but little conversation, and that of an ordinary kind—on the roads, the weather, the night, the speed of the horses and so forth,—until having reached the middle of a long tract of forest, the driver suddenly pulled up and stopped short. Turning round upon Mr. Webster, he said, "Do you know who you are dirving with?"

Mr. W. replied, "Oh, yes, very well; John Mumma the butcher, the man who killed Gen. Lingam."

"And are you not afraid to ride with me at this time of night?"

"Not in the least."

"You are Daniel Webster, a Federal member of Congress from New Hamp shire?"

"Yes I am."

After a slight pause, and looking Mr. Webster full in the face, and their faces had to be very near each other, the night was so dark, Mumma moved on.

He then proceeded to say that he had volunteered to drive Mr. W. when he heard who he was, for the purpose of talking with him about the Baltimore riots.—He said in substance, that he had been greatly misrepresented. That he had wished no harm to Gen. Lingam or any of the others; but that word came out into the country that traitors in Baltimore were plotting against American liberty, and all true friends of the country were called upon to come in and put them down. That he went in with others, believing it all to be true, and thought he was doing his country service. That hearing he was a federal member of Congress, he wanted to tell him about it, just how it happened.

Mr. Webster used to say it was evident he felt the load of obloquy under which he labored, and desired to relieve himself of it; that he was as good natured a fellow as ever lived, but bold, powerful, and under strong excitement had been led to commit an act which he sincerely regretted.

He left Mr. Webster at the door of the hotel, took a friendly and kindly leave of him with a cordial shake of the hand, and drove off in his old rattling gig, refusing all compensation for his service.

These are, gentlemen, the facts, as I have frequently heard them from Mr. Websters own lips, as nearly as I can recollect them, and it will be seen how little they resemble the statements of the above "anecdote." F. W.

NEW YORK MORALS.—The New York Tribune says the very latest affair is that of a wealthy merchant down town, has found a deficit of $10,000 in the account of one of his clerks. He called the defaulter to account, and told him that if the money was not at once returned he would arrest and expose him. The clerk mindly informed his employer that he should not return the cash, and that he further concluded that he had a sufficient offset, "Offset!" said the merchant, "what do you mean by offset?" "I mean my wife," returned the clerk. Not another word was said about the $10,000.

☞ A new way of making locomotives more serviceable than heretofore is just announced. This is to magnetize the driving wheels so as to secure more adhesion between them and the track. The additional adhesion is said to be fully seventy five per cent., thus enabling a light engine of seventeen tons weight to perform the work of a heavy engine of thirty tons. A trial of it was recently made upon the Fitchburg road, near Boston, with excellent results.

☞ I plows, I sows, I reaps, I mows, I gets up wood for winter, I digs, I hoes, and taters grows, and, for what I knows, I'm indebted to the printer. I do suppose all knowledge flows, right from the printing press; so off I goes in these ere clothes, and settles up—I guess.

A Young Wife Dies Broken Hearted.

In the Obituary department of the Journal, published at Palmer, Mass., we find the following announcement:

"DIED—Mary, aged 20, wife of De Witt Clinton Packard, of Providence, R. I."

In the editorial column there is a sad and touching story, relating to the announcement which we annex below. It is a lesson from the tomb, to the young and thoughtless, and told so eloquently, that it cannot fail to make an impression for good on readers of every age It says:

"In another column we record the death of a young lady, who died of a broken heart. We do not like to trespass upon the sacredness of domestic grief, to unfold the details of her sad story; but when the privacy of affliction becomes public feeling, it is not improper for the Press to place the events on record. It is not necessary to repeat names or relate minute particulars. It is enough that we draw the outlines of a picture for the reader to paint with appropriate colors.—Many months ago, in the neighboring town of Belchertown, a young man sought and received the promise of the hand of a young lady, whose home was in the lap of luxury, whose mental and personal attractions made all pleasant around her. Like too many confiding ones of her sex, she trusted man's unhallowed promise and yielded all to him. From that hour he estraged himself from her, and removed to a distant State. When it became evident that he had exposed himself to the penalty of the law, at the request of her friend he returned to her to fulfill the vows he had long before made. They were married in one of those hasty, unceremonious ways, which occupy but little time or attention. Late in the evening they returned to her father's house, where he left her in the street, promising to return in a short time. But that promise was never fulfilled. She wrote to him, and received encouragement that he would soon provide a home for her, but delay followed delay, till her letters and entreaties were unheeded and unanswered. At length a pledge of woman's love for her husband came into the world to open new fountains of affection to the young wife. Still the husband and father came not.

"The mother recovered from confinement; but after repeated letters to her husband found no answer, the idea that she was deserted by him forced itself upon her, and she gave way to despondency and despair. The child, partaking of its mother's grief, soon died. There was nothing that she could live for now, and though suffering from no disease, she sank upon a dying bed. Then the swift wing of lightning bore to the distant husband the intelligence that she was dying. He still hesitated, but at length set out to meet his expiring wife. Conscious that her hours were few, she only wished to live long enough to see her husband; he was still all to her. Her last words to her friends were: "Tell him that I still love him—that I died for him." When evening shadowed the earth the husband came. As he approached the bedside of his injured wife, he was recognized, and the words "He's come," burst from her lips. Already had the wing of the death angel cast its shadow over that dwelling, and she was entering the dimness of the dark valley. Next morning, in that room, lay the corpse of a beautiful young wife, on which the husband had looked for the last time, and departed.

"Last Sabbath afternoon, the funeral of the young wife took place under her father's roof. Her neighbors and friends to the number of five hundred, were present; but the husband who had left her to die for him was not there. A deeply affecting address was made by her former pastor, and just as the sun was sinking behind the western hills, four young ladies of her acquaintance, clad in garments of white, bore her to a grave in the garden, where the green turf was laid gently over her. Such is the story of one who died broken hearted. The grave is a quiet place for the injured wife, but where in all the world can there be peace for him who would thus bring sorrow and death upon her? The story has its moral, but we will leave the reader to apply it; it is full of warning, and we leave the young to heed it.

ANECDOTES OF THE STORK.—This bird, after spending its summer in Europe, migrates in the fall to Africa or Asia.—A Polish gentleman having caught a stork which lived upon his estate, put round its neck an iron collar, with these words on it: "This stork comes from Poland," and then set it at liberty. The next year the stork came back again with a gold collar. The gentleman caught it again, and found on the collar, in the Hindoo language, "India sends back the stork to the Poles, with gifts."—Parley's History.

A CALIFOTNIA APPLE TREE.—In Mr. Medina's garden, at the Bay State Branch, California, is an apple tree four years old, about seven and one-half feet high, and not more than two inches in diameter at the thickest part of the trunk, which has one thousand and fifty apples upon its branches—not pigmies at that.

A Model Dun.

An editor out west thus talks to his nonpaying subscribers and patrons. If this appeal does not bring in the "pewter," we think he need never dun a second time:

"Friends, Patrons, Subscribers and Advertisers:—Hear us for our debts, and get ready that you may pay; trust us we are in need—and have regard for our need, for you have long been trusted; acknowledge your indebtedness, and dive into your pockets that you may promptly fork over. If there be any among you—one single patron—that don't owe us something, then to him we say, step inside—consider yourself a gentleman. If the rest wish to know why we dun them, this is our answer:—Not that we care about the cash ourselves, but our creditors do. Would you rather that we go to jail, and you go free, than you pay your debts and we all keep moving? As we have agreed, we have worked for you—as we have contracted, we have furnished our paper to you, but as you don't pay, we dun you!—Here are the agreements for job-work, contracts for subscription, promises of long credits, and duns for deferred payment. Who is there so mean that he don't take a paper? If any, he needn't speak, we don't mean him. Who is there so green that he don't advertise? If any, let him slide; he ain't the chap either.—Who is there so bad that he don't pay the printer? If any, let him shout—for he's the man we're after. His name is legion. He has been owing us one, two or three years—long enough to make us poor and himself poor at our expense. If the above appeal to his conscience dosn't awaken his sense to justice, we shall have to try the law, and see what virtue there is in writs and constables."

How a Dog Reasons.

The Utica Herald relates the following story of the almost human intelligence of a dog:

A farmer living in New Hampshire had a dog which had grown old in the service of the family. Having become very feeble and useless, and having, moreover, lost nearly all his teeth, the farmer told his family one morning, in the presence of the dog, that he thought he would take him out into the woods and shoot him.—Almost immediately the venerable brute disappeared. The premises were thoroughly searched, but in vain. Three days elapsed, and nothing was seen of the missing dog. This was the more remarkable, as he had occupied his place regularly by the fire-side for many years. Finally, the owner having occasion to creep under the barn floor in search of something which had fallen through, found the dog crouched up in a dark corner, trembling with fear, and whinning piteously. Struck with compassion, he said, in a kind voice, "Don't be afraid, old dog; you shan't be shot." The poor creature leaped towards his mastre, licked his hands and face, ran joyfully toward the house, and took his old place in the chimney corner. It is hardly necessary to add that he was permitted to spend the rest of his days in peace.

"POWER OF THE HUMAN EYE."—Herr Driesbach, the famous lion tamer, was at the hotel; and one night, a very powerful and savage drunken man was terrifying every person in the bar-room. Herr Driesbach volunteered to "get an eye on him and fix him;" and crowding himself in front of the inebriated rowdy, he fastened his terrible eye upon him. The fellow stooped over towards the tamer, putting his hands on his knees, and returning the gaze as well as he could in his then confused state. The tamer thought things were working and intimated as much by a nod of his head to the crowd, when the subject asked in a calm dispassionate manner, "what he was looking at!" "Never you mind," said the tamer, throwing all the power he could muster into his eyes; but the subject did mind, for with a startling "whoo-ep," he dealt Driesbach a tremendous blow under the left ear, which sent him through a glass door into the next room, where he came to a sudden stop against a hard brick partition.

Political Abuse.

Last week's issue of the "Democrat and Sentinel," a Durbin paper, published at Ebensburg, Cambria county, comes ladened with low abuse and false inuendoes against the Peoples' candidate for Senator in this District. If the writer of the editorials of that paper expects that by such a course he will further the prospects of Mr. Durbin, he is very much mistaken. After the manner in which he commented on the attack of the Johnstown Tribune on Mr. Durbin, we thought he would be the last man to indulge in anything of the kind; but it seems that his fear, or indignation got the better of his judgement and betrayed him. Here, where Louis W. Hall resides—where he is well known to every man in the town and surrounding country, we say to the Sentinel that not one man can be found, of any political party, but will admit that he is an honest man, an able advocate and a well-read lawyer—a man whose private character is above reproach. The vote he will receive here next Tuesday, at the hands of all parties, will show that the people of Altoona esteem their neighbor and will fitly rebuke the Sentinel man's false insinuations.

This journal has taken no part in the present political contest, further than to recommend a neighbor and friend—a citizen of our town—to the conference, as a suitable candidate to be placed in nomination for Senator. We did so because we believed him better qualified than his competitors, as well as from a feeling of local pride. Not one word have we said against the private character of Mr. Durbin, nor do we intend to; but we do not believe (and this we say in the kindest manner) that Mr. D. is qualified to represent this district in the Senate. This we have been told by good and honest Democrats, and we have never heard it denied except in a party paper. Even in the excitement of a political campaign, no man has pretended to say that Louis W. Hall is not qualified to represent us in the Senate and to adorn that body.—Admitting this to be so, we are for Mr. Hall because he is the better suited for the position.

The same paper charges him with being the Attorney for the Pa. R. R. Co., and says as he is paid for that, he would go to Harrisburg to do the bidding of the Company. A fine specimen of logic, truly. Capital reasoning, ain't it reader? Suppose he is a Solicitor for the Pa. R. R. Co., is it wonderful that it pays him for his services? If Mr. J. or any other Attorney of Cambria county, is employed to defend a horse-thief, is it to be inferred that he will steal a horse if the horse-thief should bid him do so? Preposterous presumption. But that is what the logic would lead to, placing the Company in the same category which the Sentinel would seem to do. That paper is hard put to for arguments, or else the editor is extremely acute.

We say to our readers, independent of party, rebuke the vile slanderer of your neighbor, Col. Hall, by giving him such a vote in this place as no man ever before received. He will legislate fairly and honestly for you all, unbiassed by partizan feelings, for we have never known as a bitter party man. The day has gone by when elections are to be carried by false stories, or by strict party drill, no matter who the candidate for the suffrages of the people may be. The ballot box is understood to express the popular will of the county, district or State, where the election is held. Let the popular will be fairly expressed in this district—let the people vote for the candidate most fit to represent them, and who will best attend to their interests, and L. W Hall will be triumphantly chosen.

Qualifications of Voters.—The law requires a person who claims the right to vote, to have been a citizen of the Commonwealth "at least one year, and in the election district at least ten days immediately preceeding such election, and within two years, to have paid a State or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least ten days before the election: But a citizen of the United States, who has previously been a qualified voter of the State, and removed therefrom and returned, and who shall have resided in the Election District, and paid taxes aforesaid, shall be entitled to vote after residing in this State six months. But citizens of the United States, between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-two years, who have resided in the election district ten days, as aforesaid, shall be entitled to vote although they shall not have paid taxes."

The States Union Hotel.—While in Philadelphia last week, during the Fair, we, together with several of our citizens, had the pleasure of stopping at the States Union Hotel—Jas. W. Power, Proprietor. We have never stopped at a house where the "accommodations for strangers and travelers" were as good as at the above hotel. The table is the table of the city, and the proprietor, Col. Power, appears to make it his whole study to please his guests. We advise all our readers who contemplate visiting the city to pitch right into the States Union Hotel, and the good things to be had there.

The Artisan.—We have received two or three copies of a paper bearing the above title, published at Cincinnati, by the American Patent Company. It is an exceedingly neat paper of eight pages and is well filled with matter of interest to all, but especially to inventors and me h nics. The low price at which it is published, $1,50 per year, should place it in the hands of every mechanic in the country, and they could not invest the same amount of money to the same advantage in any other way. Address American Patent Company, Cincinnati, Ohio.

California Elections.—The latest arrival from California brings intelligence of the State election held on the 7th ult., which has resulted in the undoubted choice of Milton S. Latham, the Lecompton Democratic candidate for Governor, by perhaps 20,000 majority. Scott and Burch, (L. D.) are also probably elected to Congress, although it is stated their opponents Baker and McKibben (who received the united vote of the Republicans and Anti-Lecompton parties) have the benefit of a slight doubt in their favor.

Methodism and Slavery.

The division of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this country, several years ago, through the slavery question, did not settle that question in the Northern division. Several Conferences, located in the slave States, adhered to the Northern division, under a promise that the "General Rule" of the Church, relative to slavery, would not be disturbed. This rule simply forbids the buying and selling of human beings. The membership of the Church, within the Conferences alluded to, embraces many slaves and slave holders. The latter are content with the Rule of the Church as it exists, having no disposition to sell the slaves now owned by them, or to add to their stock of human chattle by the purchase of others. The Conferences of many of the Free States, however, have within the last year or two expressed an unwillingness to extend church fellowship to those who, under any circumstances, will hold a human being in slavery, or will, to any extent, support the institution of slavery. These Conferences have agitated a change of the general rule, by the next General Conference, so as to exclude from the membership of the Methodist Church North all persons owning slave property. The question seems to have been pretty well discussed by the clergy and the organs of the church. The conferences this year elect the delegates to the General Conference, and enough elections have been held to warrant the opinion that there is great probability of the Rule being changed.—If it is, the Southern Conferences attached to the Northern division will at once withdraw, and then must follow another vexatious distribution of the property of the church.

We notice that in some sections societies, consisting of clergymen and laymen, are being organized to prevent, if possible, this second division of the Methodist Church. The design, we presume, is to bring an outside pressure of sentiment to bear upon the General Conference.—Among the declarations of these societies is the following:—

"We are convinced that instead of altering the General Rule on slavery, and thereby making a new condition of membership, the true policy of our Church in its legislation on the subject is, to add to the chapter on slavery such provisions as shall define more strictly the duties of masters to their slaves, and gradually fit the slave to assume the position of a freeman.

The Christian Advocate of Cincinnati, one of the organs of the Church, is opposed to the proposed alteration of the general rule.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Mysterious Poisoning Case.—It is reported that on Tuesday afternoon, a little boy handed Miss Rebecca Stull, a young girl, of McVeytown, an apple, stating that it was the gift of a young man, whose name he was not permitted to give. She ate the apple, and was shortly after seized with violent sickness, accompanied with all the symptoms of poison. Drs. Worrall and Vanvalzah were speedily called, and succeeded in saving her life, though had they arrived five minutes later she would have been past recovery.

☞ Sacred Relics.—In the grading of the Philadelphia and Baltimore Central Railroad, at Chadd's Ford, the bones of a large number of soldiers who fell at the Battle of Brandywine, have been dug up. A number of men having on the Hessian uniform were dug up.—The buttons on the uniforms were made of lead, and were not much defaced. The bones of one man were dug up measuring six feet six inches.

☞ The strike of the four thousand coal diggers in the Pennsylvania mining districts has resulted unfavorably for them. It was also determined to raise subscriptions for the assistance and protection of such miners as are willing to return to work.

Melancholy Occurrence.

Our citizens were startled early on Saturday morning last by the announcement that James Platt, of Ennisville, Huntingdon county, a private in the "Jackson Artillery," was mortally wounded by a shot from a musket in the hands of Edward Mills, of Patterson, a private in the "Ringgold Infantry," at the Camp Ground, on the previous night between 9 and 10 o'clock.—Mr. Mills was on duty as a Sentinel, and was strictly charged not to permit any person to pass the line without giving the countersign.—Mr. Platt, approachod the Camp, and was challenged by Mr. Mills with "Who goes there?" to which the former replied, "Hold on, stranger—I want to speak with you," and walked towards the latter. When within a few paces of him, Mills ordered him to stop, and was in the act of charging bayonet, when his foot struck a stone, the concussion of which discharged the musket, the contents entering the abdomen of Platt. The musket was loaded with an eight-penny nail, which entered the left epigastrium, pierced the stomach, passed on through the body, and made its exit about an inch from the vertebral column, inflicting a ghastly wound. Mills immediately surrendered himself, and was placed under guard. On the following morning, after an investigation, he was released, all the facts elicited showing that the discharge of the gun was accidental. Drs. Worrall and Van Valzah were sent for without delay to dress the wounds of Mr. Platt, and were unremitting in their attentions to him, exerting all that medical and surgical skill could suggest, until Monday afternoon, when he expired.

Both Mr. Mills and Mr. Platt were esteemed in their respective homes as quiet, sober, respectable, inoffensive men—both are married men, the latter having a wife and three children—and both are members of the Methodist church, the former, it is said, a class leader.—While the sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved family of the deceased in their deep affliction, the sore distress and bitter agony experienced by Mr. Mills over the unfortunate occurrence, enlist for him the warmest feelings and commisseration.

Mr. Platt, upon his death bed, exonerated Mr. Mills from all blame.

The remains of Mr. Platt were taken to Milroy, in this county, where he formerly resided for interment. His funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, the Red Lion Hotel.

P. S.—Since writing the above, Mr. Mills has been arrested by the civil authorities, but, upon a hearing before Judge Wilson, was permitted to enter into a recognizance for his appearance at November Court.—Lewistown Dem.

An Infernal Machine.—The Chautauque Democrat learns that Judge Chamberlain, of Randolph, recently received a package from some place in Pennsylvania, by mail. The package looked as though it might have contained miniature likenesses, but upon removing the outside wrapper, the Judge became suspicious of a certain string that seemed to be connected with the contents of the package. He called in a neighbor, and the package was carefully opened, and found to contain two pistols loaded with powder and ball, capped and cocked, the string communicating with the triggers.—The Judge has strong suspicions as to who was the friendly donor of this valuable present.

☞ The enterprising editors of the San Antonio (Texas) Herald have lately imported from New York a steam engine, which, besides doing the work of the office, is used in connection with a mill for grinding corn. The editors justify themselves for this strange procedure by the following logic:—"If any explanation should be though necessary why we have somewhat unceremoniously entered into a field of labor somewhat foreign to the newspaper business, we have merely to say, that our engine has been procured at a heavy outlay, as our printing will only occupy a very small proportion of its time, we have attached the mill to it to assist in lightening our expenses."

☞ Our Government pays the Choctaws and Chickasaws $800,000 in consideration of a perpetual lease of territory from them, on which to locate the Wichitas, Camanches and other wild tribes of Indians. The Camanches of the Texas reserve have already reached there, together with the Wichitas, and other small tribes, who appear to be satisfied with their new homes.—The Choctaw and Chickasaw country embraces, in all, 20,500,000 acres, equal in value to any Western teritory. There are 8,000,000 acres now set apart out of this for the location of the Wichitas, Camanches and other wild tribes of Indians.

☞ A Boston hay dealer has been detected in a curious fraud. The hay was so loaded that a person could crawl into a hole left near the bottom of the cart, and in this place a colored man in the employ of the hay speculator, was in the habit of concealing himself while the hay was being weighed. Of course the live freight was upon the top of the load when it was delivered, and the purchasers little suspected that either themselves or the animated one hundred and fifty pound lump before them had been sold. Some of the purchasers have paid for him a dozen times over, and begin to think it about time to take possession.

Shrewd.—An insurance agent in this city tells the following in illustration of the verdancy of a gentleman in Pike county, Indiana, with whom he had effected a policy of insurance:—"In the list of printed questions in the company's blanks there is one like this: "Ashes—how kept?" The Pike county gentleman was burned out, and after the fire discovered this question in his policy, and, resolving to make a sure thing of this premium, wrote our informant something in this wise: "Dear Sir. I was burned out on the—day of—, and, according to your laws, I have kept the ashes. They are in barrels; what shall I do with them?"

Served Him Right.—Mr. Elisha B. Smith, a democratic candidate for Congress, has recovered $2,000 from Mr. Stewart, editor and proprietor of the Binghamton Republican, for alleged libel. Mr. Stewart alleges that he published in his paper, in aid of the Republican candidate, Mr. Henry Bennet, matter reflecting upon Mr. Stewart, and for which Bennett promised to pay and to shield the editor from any unpleasant consequence; but Bennett, it seems, backed out, and the unfortunate editor has lost two thousand for putting his trust in politicians.

Terrible Suffering.—A Kansas paper gives an account of two men, father and son, named Frost, from Pottsville, Pa., who, returning from Pike's Peak, nearly starved to death, when relieved by Lieut. Griffin and two soldiers from Fort Riley, who went with provisions to them. The Frosts had been at an abandoned express station for eight days, living on grasshoppers and mildewed corn picked up among the excrements of animals that had been fed at the station. They caught twenty to thirty grasshoppers every morning until too weak to do so, and made a stew of grasshoppers, corn, and buffalo-hide.

The Chinese War.—It is stated by the Chinese, in justification of their murderous attack on the English and French, that they attempted to ascend the wrong mouth of the river. It is said also that the commercial men at Shanghai all condemn the hasty and ill-advised proceedings of the English. The Americans are highly praised for their assistance in towing up boats, taking care of the wounded, and supplying fresh meat and vegetables.

A Man shot while taking his own Fruit.

The Chatham (C. W.) Planet narrates the following singular and mournful incident;

On monday morning last, Joseph Smith, Esq., of the Lake Shore Raleigh, was accidently shot by his servant girl. From the evidence adduced at the inquest and from the neighborhood around, it appeared that Mr. Smith, who was an excellent and extensive agriculturist and horticulturist, had of late been greatly annoyed by persons trespassing upon his premises and stealing therefrom any choice fruit they may be able to find. Every means almost had been tried to put a stop to these depredations, but without effect. Therefore on Sunday last, after talking the matter over, and referring to his grapes, of which he had a fine lot just getting ripe, Mr. S. addressed his servant girl while at the tea table, and said to her, "Now, Julia, I'm going for the cows; you take the gun, which is loaded with shot, and shoot the first person who comes to the grapes;" after uttering which he proceeded on to the pasture. Having brought up the cows, instead of coming back the usual way, from some unknown reason—probably to see if thieves were about—came through the garden, and directly between the rows of grapes behind which the girl was stationed with the loaded gun at full cock. According to the girls testimony, she "did not see Mr. Smith, but saw some one's legs when I shot." He cried out, "Oh, my God! what have you done?" and fell down, the whole charge taking effect on the inside of the thigh, completely severing the femoral artery. The poor, frightened girl, scarcely knowing what she did, tied a handkerchief round the wounded limb, to stop, if possible, the great flow of blood. But all remedies were ineffectual, and the unfortunate man breathed his last before assistance could be procured to remove him to the house.

☞ The frightful accident on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad, briefly mentioned by telegraph, is thus chronicled by the Cincinnati Press:

As the ten o'clock night train was passing along the banks of the canal, a short distance below Delhi, and about twelve miles from this city, on Saturday last, a rotten tie gave way under the weight of the engine, which caused a rail to break. The engine, however, passed over in safety, but the baggage car tore up the rail, thereby throwing the train off the track, the first car falling bottom side up, full twenty feet off. The second car was thrown partly off and was badly broken. The third was capsized into the canal, and partly filled with water, and would have been entirely submerged and the passengers drowned, had the coupling given way; fortunately this was not the case, although all state that under the circumstances it is impossible to conceive how it held together against the shock it received. The cars were twenty minutes behind time, and were going at the rate of about thirty miles per hour.

Twenty-seven passengers were more or less injured—one of them, an old lady named Snyder, fatally.

Slightly Mistaken.—On the occasion of the Aurora Borealis, one night last week, a man named Houton, of this Borough, was led into the belief, by the great light, that dawn was approaching, and being an early riser, he proceeded to the Agricultural Fair Grounds to mow the grass off a patch large enough for the Cricket Clubs to display their skill upon. After mowing awhile he was much astonished to find it growing darker and finally, on going home, and consulting a mantle piece, he found it to be only two o'clock.

Another gentleman desiring to have his marketing at the railroad station in time for the early morning train, hitched up his horses and found himself at the Depot shortly after midnight, much disappointed as he felt sure the sun was about to rise when he started.

A farmer, a short distance from West Chester, wishing to make a full day at plowing, geared his horses, and commenced his work.—Ere long it grew darker and darker; and he was obliged to unhitch his teams and return home. He was much surprised to find it but little after mid-night.—Westchester Record.

A Robinson Crusoe Dog.—A very large Newfoundland dog, by some means, drifted on a rock just below the Niagara Falls, and which cannot be descended without assistance, except on the side next to the rushing waters. He has been there for two years, and cannot escape without assistance. A daring attempt was once made to rescue him, but was rendered fruitless by his ferocity. His midnight howl is often heard. He is a kind of Robinson Crusoe among dogs, and, it is supposed, picks up his precarious living from the fish and small animals on his "beat," which is only half a mile in length.

Intense Grief.—Some five or six months ago, the idolized babe of a worthy couple residing in Camden died, and such was the poignant anguish of the mother, that she was almost frantic, and would not permit it to be removed from her sight. The necessity for burial become apparent, but it was thought that if its remains were interred, the mother herself would die. The corpse was kept some time in the house, preserved in ice, and no hopes being entertained of the mother's infatuation being dissipated, it was put into alcohol, and is yet kept within sight of the mother.

☞ Here is a story told by the Providence Post:

"A clergyman from a town near Providence and one of his elderly parishioners were walking home from church one icy day last winter, when the old gentleman slipped and fell flat on his back. The minister, looking at him a moment, and being assured he was not much hurt, said to him: "Friend, sinners stand, on slippery places." The old gentleman looked up, as if to assure himself of the fact, and said, "I see they do; but I can't."

IRON FINGER NAILS FOR HUSKING CORN.—Gould's Patent Husking Thimble is the only implement known that will entirely protect the fingers from the evils of excoriation, &c., common to husking corn by hand.

We are now in possession of over 200,000 letters of approval, over the signatures of reliable farmers and planters in different localities in the U. S., equally as flattering as the following.

READ! READ! READ!

THE HUSKING THIMBLE CAN'T be BEAT.

Messrs Gould & Co.—Sirs:—I send enclosed $1 for six pairs of your celebrated Husking Thimbles. I bought a pair of you last fall and I have used them for husking ever since. If there are any who don't think worth while to buy a pair, let them tear their finger nails off; for one, I won't. They will outwear anything of the kind I ever saw, and for husking they can't be beat.

Yours truly, WM. MORROW

Tiro, Crawford Co., O., Nov. 8th, 1858.

BETTER THAN ANY MACHINE.

Messrs. J. H. Gould & Co.—Gents; find enclosed $1.50 for six pairs of your patent Husking Thimbles of the sizes represented by the measures enclosed. I used a pair last year and I prefer them to all the great, small, and little Giant Corn Huskers. Yours Respectfully, A. H. BELL.

Hillsboro Montgomery Co., Ill. Nov. 27th, 1858.

THE HUSKING THIMBLES ARE ALL WE REPRESENT THEM TO BE.

J. H. Gould & Co.—Alliance Ohio—Gentlemen; I received in good order the six pairs of Husking Thimbles and can say that they are all that is represented of them. I have distributed them among my neighbors, and could have sold a great many if I had had them in season. I will myself, or get some one to do so, apply for an agency for their sale in Central Iowa next season.

Yours &c., SAMUEL S. DYER.

LOCAL ITEMS.

How Young Men may Succeed.—Young man, are you poor, without the means of splurging in life, as you launch upon its billows? Is your father poor and unable to give you an outfit?—Be not disheartened on account of all this.—Take earnest hold of life, and never regard yourself in any other light than that of being destined to a high and holy purpose. Study closely the bent of your own mind for labor or profession, and either learn a trade or adopt a profession. Whatever you resolve upon, do it early; follow it steadily and untiringly; never look backward to what you have encountered, but always forward to what is within your grasp. The world owes every man a comfortable living and a respectable position in society; means are abundant to every man's success; and men have only to adopt will and action to obtain them.

To repine over a want of money and property to start out in the world with, and over the want of the props of influential relatives, is unmanly. Let a young man strive to create a fortune, rather than to want one. It is an ignoble spirit that leads a young man to borrow instead of be-queathing means. Go forth into the world, young man, conscious of God within you, and his providence over you, and fight your own way to distinction, to honor, and comfort. Pity in your inmost soul the young man who, without any change, is unable to support himself, and is whining around, and begging the influence of others to get him into employment! Feel, under all circumstances, that it is more noble, more honorable, to eat the crust you have earned than to flourish with coppers inherited. You may lift your head proudly to face and confront the noblest among us, when you are conscious of being the architect of your own fortunes.—Young man, are you poor? Be honest, be industrious: hold up your head, and say by your actions and looks, what the poet has said in words;

"I scorn the man who boasts his birth,
And boasts his titles and his lands—
Who takes his name and heritage
From out a dying father's hands."

Children Scalded to Death.—We learn from the Register of last week, that a little daughter of Mr. John Martin, who lives at Frankstown Ore Banks, was scalded to death on Saturday week. Her mother was boiling pumpkins for pig feed, and had taken a kettle of them off the fire, and placed it in the yard to cool, when the child went up to it, and seeing some pieces of pumpkins floating about on the top, she tried to catch them, and in so doing, lost her balance and fell into the scalding mass. She was taken out immediately, but lived only about two hours after the accident. She was aged about 18 months.

From the same paper we learn that a little son of Mr. Wm. Boring, of Hollidaysburg, was so severely scalded on Thursday week, by the accidental upsetting of a pot of hot coffee upon it, that after lingering in dreadful suffering until Saturday it died. The mother was seriously scalded at the same time but is getting well.—The coffee pot was standing on a window by the side of a table at which Mrs. B. was breakfasting, with her child upon her lap, and in attempting to lift it she missed her hold and upset it, its contents emptying upon her neck and breast and upon the babe. The child was about 18 months old.

Will Bear Watching.—Just at this time there are a number of persons in this place who will bear watching, and should be observed closely in all that they do. As journalists—as defenders of the rights and property of our citizens, desiring the good of all, and determined to warn all of danger, we are in duty bound to notice a couple of chaps, (though they be near neighbors of ours,) and we hope good friends and request our citizens to keep an eye on them. The persons we refer to are Messrs. J. & J. Lowther of the "Model Store," down stairs, who have a fashion of slipping off to the city every now and then, and laying in a handsome assortment of goods just suited to the season, and unless our people watch them closely and call often at their store, they will be likely to miss rare goods and rare bargains. Apropos—they have just received their stock of fall goods, and now is the time to call.

Prof. Huey's Juvenile Concert.—Prof. Huey, who had been engaged for a week previous in instructing a class of some 80 or 100 juveniles in vocal music, gave a concert in the Methodist Church, on Tuesday evening of last week, for the purpose of exhibiting the proficiency of his theory of music and the advancement his class had made in so short a space of time. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the church was reasonably well filled. The performance of the juveniles surpassed all expectations, and at once proclaimed the Prof. one of the best teachers in the land. He is thoroughly acquainted with music and possesses the faculty of imparting what he knows to the children, thus instilling into their plastic minds the first rudiments of music at a time when they will be most likely to remember it. He deserves the patronage of every community where he may ask for a class.

A Bold Case of Shoplifting.—One of the most unheard-of cases of cool effrontery was perpetrated in our town one day last week, the circumstances of which are as follows:—On Wednesday morning, a young lady (we suppress her name, hoping this attempt may cure her of her propensity to appropriate the property of others to her own use,) stepped into the millinery store of Mrs. Haller, on pretence of making a purchase, and while Mrs. H. was in another part of the room, the girl picked up a shawl and secreted it under one she had on, started quickly out of the store and passed rapidly down street. Mrs. H. immediately informed our Constable, Joe Ely, of the theft, but before "Joe" had made a start, she was out of sight. Obtaining a description of the girl and her dress, he started in pursuit, and was almost despairing of success when he happened to meet a female whose bodily appearance answered Mrs. H.'s description, but the dress was not the same.—Imagining that she was the person for whom he was looking, he arrested her and conveyed her before Esquire Cherry. Having ascertained her residence he obtained a search warrant and proceeded to make a search of her room, in which, after almost despairing again, he found the shawl stowed away in a band-box. With this evidence of her guilt he returned to the Squire's office, where a young man paid costs; the shawl was returned to its owner and the prisoner discharged, Mrs. H. declining to prosecute further.

☞ We notice a number of our cotemporaries "pitching in" to the "State Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Pennsylvania," located at Harrisburg, which lately "busted up." An effort is now being made to collect the full amount of the outstanding premium notes, in order to liquidate the liabilities of the concern, put money in the pockets of somebody, or something else, the notices don't state what. If we are rightly informed, the money on the premium notes can only be collected on assessments levied to make up for losses by fire or water, and if the swamping of the Company occurred through speculation, or any cause other than those mentioned, it would be well enough for those insured in the Company to know all about he matter before they hand over the amount of their premium notes.

New Ticket System.—The new ticket system, known as Bailey's Patent, has been adopted by the Penn'a R. R., and went into operation on Saturday last. It consists of a case, very neatly and conveniently arranged with 100 compartments, each compartment holding a number of tickets, and so arranged that a ticket can be slipped out from below without disturbing those above. Each compartment represents a station, and the ticket for one station is readily distinguished from another. The ticket agent is also furnished with a small press, by which the date of the ticket is printed in a moment.—The entire arrangement is a great saving of labor in signing and registering tickets, and it works with great precision. It also saves the agent the labor of making daily returns of the sale of tickets.

☞ The Cincinnati Excursionists having returned from their Eastern jaunt, publish a card of acknowledgements, in which, among other things, they say:—"We owe an enormous debt to the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company for the unbounded liberality bestowed upon our party, by their officers and attachees, "from the beginning to the end." We cannot forego the "special train" that for our sole benefit and pleasure, carried us back from Altoona to the mountains, and to the "mountain summit," that we might have the opportunity of viewing and enjoying the magnificent and romantic scenery of these grand and gorgeous mountain wilds, through which this splendidly built road finds its way."

Returned.—Those who have for some time past been "grinning and bearing" with aching molars or insciasors, will be pleased to learn that Dr. Bittner has returned from his visit to his friends, and is now ready to attend to all patients who have patience or courage enough to have their aching voids removed. He is also prepared to put up sets of teeth on a new principle which it is said is equal to gold plate but less costly. We have examined a plate and think it excellent as well as handsome. Dr. B. knows how to get up such things in the most approved style, and we therefore recommend him to all who wish anything in the line of dentistry.

Officers Installed.—On Saturday evening last, the following persons were installed as officers of Altoona Division, No. 311, S. of T., for the ensuing quarter:—W. P., Geo. R. Everson; W. A., Jeremiah Delo; R. S., A. D. Cherry; A. R. S., David Irons; F. S., Jacob Renner; Treas., Michael Clabaugh; Cond., E. Kepler; A. C., John Curry; I. S., Wm. Marshall; O. S., Wm. Price; Chaplain, W. C. McCormick.

We are plensed to state that during the last quarter the Division has prospered finely, quite a large accession to the membership having been acquired. We hope an equal number may be admitted during the present quarter.

☞ We learn from the Tyrone Star, of last week, that on Thursday of Encampment week at that place, a boy, name unknown, fell into Bald Eagle Creek, from a foot-bridge, and was only saved from drowning by Drum-Major Wickerman, who happened to be in the vicinity. He heard the splash in the creek, and, having previously noticed some boys on the bridge, he surmised that one of them had fallen in, and went to the spot. On arriving he observed a little boy floating down the current and immediately plunged in and rescued him just as he was sinking the third time.

Academy Exhibition.—As previously announced, the exhibition by the scholars of Altoona Academy came off on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week. We were not present on either occasion, but judging from the report of those who were in attendance, it was a perfect success and would have done credit to more advanced pupils.

☞ Something that interests all—the facts communicated in Jesse Smith's advertisement in another column. Read it.

Emigration to Hammonton, New Jersey.—The emigration still continues to this new settlement. The present season the crops are excellent. Grapes and peaches yield well. The grape will yield largely. Some forty vineyards have recently been set out.

Considering that this locality is entirely secure from blighting frosts, it presents great inducements for profitable farming to those who must leave. The loss of wealth to farmers in the North, from frosts, amounts to incalculable millions, whilst the coldness of their climate also debars them from raising of the most profitable crops.

This New England settlement is undergoing vast improvements, and increase of population. We understand that within the past year the population has increased some 1500. In a business way the improvement is even more marked.

We learn that some parties think of starting the shoe business in this vicinity. Inasmuch as shoe manufacturers go to the markets of Philadelphia and vicinity to buy their leather, and then sell their shoes, there is no reason why the shoe business cannot be carried on to great advantage in this country.—Phila. Even'g Journal.

Partridge Shooting.—With Saturday last the Partridge season commenced, and for several weeks now it will be legal to shoot these delicious birds. It is said that they are very plenty this year, and that the prospects of the gunner are most encouraging.

ATTENTION! KEYSTONE FENCIBLES!—A meeting of the Company will be held on Saturday evening, October 8th, 1859, at Shultz's Hall. A punctual attendance is requested, as business of importance will be brought before the Company. By order

WM. A. BATCHELOR'S HAIR DYE produces a color not to be distinguished from nature, and is WARRANTED not to injure in the least, however long it may be continued, and the ill effect of Bad Dyes remedied; the Hair invigorated for Life by this Splendid Dye.

Made, sold or applied (in 9 private rooms) at the Wig Factory, 233 Broadway, New York.

Sold by Druggists in Altoona, and by Druggists in all cities and towns of the United States.

☞ The Genuine has the name and address upon a steel plate engraving on four sides of each Box, of

WM. A. BATCHELOR,
Nov. 18, 1858–1y 233 Broadway, New York.

☞ During the summer that has just passed away, thousand of sufferers from dysentery and diarrhœa have been relieved by the use of Hostetter's Bitters, a medicine which is evidently destined to maintain a permanent place in the public estimation. Billious diarrhœa is one of those diseases which baffles the skill of the physician. The medicine they administer to act upon the bowels never seems to reach the source of the evil. The difficulty is to get a remedy that will reach all the digestive organs, and give them simultaneously a rush of vigor, to rid themselves of this disease. This problem is solved by the Bitters, which never fails to conquer the most stubborn cases. It is only fair to say, that during the season just closed, this medicine has achieved more cures than any other ever presented to the public, and during the fall, which that terrible scourge, the fever and ague, is so prevalent, the Bitters will gain fresh fame.

Sold by druggists and dealers generally, everywhere.

☞ See advertisement in another column.

WIGS—WIGS—WIGS.

BATCHELOR'S WIGS AND TOUPEES surpass all—They are elegant, light, easy and durable.

Fitting to a charm—no turning up behind—no shrinking off the head; indeed, this is the only Establishment where these things are properly understood and made.

Dalley's Magical Pain Extractor.

In all diseases inflammation more or less predominates—now to allay inflammation strikes at the root of disease—hence an immediate cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR, and nothing else, will allay inflammation at once, and make a certain cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR

will cure the following among a great catalogue of diseases: Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Chafes, Sore Nipples, Corns, Bunions, Bruises, Sprains, Bites, Poison, Chilblains, Biles, Scrofula, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Felons, Ear Ache, Piles, Sore Eyes, Gout, Swellings, Rheumatism, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Baldness, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Barbers' Itch, Small Pox, Measles, Rash, &c., &c.

To some it may appear incredulous that so many diseases should be reached by one article; such an idea will vanish when reflection points to the fact, that the salve is a combination of ingredients, each and every one applying a perfect antidote to its apposite disorder.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR

In its effects is magical, because the time is so short between disease and a permanent cure; and it is an extractor, as it draws all disease out of the affected part, leaving nature as perfect as before the injury. It is scarcely necessary to say that no house, work-shop, or manufactory should be one moment without it.

No Pain Extractor is genuine unless the box has upon it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, Manufacturer.

Sold by G. W. Kessler, Altoona; George A. Jacobs, Hollidaysburg; and by all the Druggists and patent medicine dealers throughout the United States and Canadas.

Principal Depot, 165 Chambers street, New York.

Nervous Diseases Controlled and Conquered.

Of all the various ills that detract from the enjoyment of human life, most of them may be traced to a disordered condition of the nervous system. The horrors of Epilepsy, or Falling Sickness, arise in most cases from this cause.—Our readers may remember, on several occasions before, we have alluded to the wonderful cures, or modifications of Fits, made by the Vegetable Extract Epileptic Pills, invented and prepared by Dr. Seth S. Hance, of 108 Baltimore Street Baltimore, Md. We feel fully satisfied that these Pills have cured some of the most stubborn cases of Epilepsy, as well as the milder forms of Fits, such as severe Cramps, Spasms, &c. We now record the fact, that persons will find these Pills equally efficacious in curing every form of nervous debility:—no matter whether manifested in the acute and excruciating form of Neuralgia, Tic-Doloreux, or Nervous Headache, the misery of Dyspepsia or Indigestion, the sufferings of Rheumatism or Gout, the melancholy hallucination of depressed spirits or hysteria, their effects will be equally happy and certain. Persons in the country can write to the inventor, and have the medicine forwarded to them by mail. The prices are, one box, $3; two boxes $5; twelve boxes $24; and sent to any part of the country, free of postage. Direct your communications to Seth S. Hance, 108 Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md.

Important to Females—Dr Cheeseman's Pills.—The combination of ingredients in these Pills are the result of a long and extensive practice. They are mild in their operation, and certain in correcting all irregularities, painful menstruations, removing all obstructions, whether from cold or otherwise, headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, disturbed sleep, which always arise from interruption of nature, inducing with certainty periodical regularity. Warranted purely vegetable, and free from anything injurious to life or health. Explicit directions, which should be read, accompany each box. Price $1. Sent by mail by enclosing $1 to any authorized Agent.

WORMS.

☞ As this is the season of the year when worms are most formidable among children, the proprietors of M'Lane's Vermifuge, Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, beg leave to call the attention of parents to its virtues for the expelling of these annoying, and often fatal enemies of children. It was invented by a physician of great experience in Virginia, who, after having used it for several years in his own practice, and found its success so universal, was induced at last to offer it to the public as a cheap but certain and excellent medicine. It has since become justly popular throughout the United States, as the most efficient Vermifuge ever known, and the demand has been steadily on the increase since its first introduction to the public.

☞ Purchasers will be careful to ask for Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge, manufactured by Fleming Bros. of Pittsburgh, Pa All other Vermifuges in comparison are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's genuine Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable drug stores. None genuine without the signature of

What it would take to Feed the Sun.—A philosopher has calculated that the amount of light which flows from the solar orb could be scarcely produced by the daily combustion of two hundred globes of tallow, each equal to the earth in magnitude. A sphere of combustible matter, much larger than the sun itself, would be consumed every ten years in maintaining its wonderful brilliancy. It would be a splendid sight to see an immense transparency illuminated by means of one of these tallow globes, and having written upon it, "Buy all your garments at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut Street, above Sixth, Philadelphia."

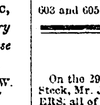
LOOK OUT FOR YOUR HEAD!

A poet gives the following advice to young men on going to parties:

In going to parties, just mind what your at;
Beware of your head and take care of your HAT;
Least you find that a favorite son of your mother,
Has an ache in the one and a brick in the other.

Speaking about hats and heads—the subscriber would respectfully announce that he has just returned from the city with a large and well selected stock of Men and Boys'



HATS AND CAPS, OF ALL STYLES,

FOR FALL AND WINTER,

of every color and shape. Also, a good assortment of

LADIES AND MISSES FURS,

of different varieties, all of which will be sold

CHEAP FOR CASH.

Persons in want of anything in the above line, will please give me a call before purchasing elsewhere, as I am determined to sell at the very lowest possible prices. Store on Virginia street, opposite the Lutheran church.

Prospectus of a New Work

BY EMERSON BENNETT,

Author of "Clara Moreland," "Prairie Flower," "The Refugees," "Blanche Bertrand," "The Artist's Bride," &c., &c., entitled

WILD SCENES ON THE FRONTIERS;

OR

HEROES OF THE WEST.

"Westward, the course of Empire takes its way."

This Work, is the only one in Book form, which for several years has emanated from the pen of the gifted author, who treads now alone the path, once trodden by our own Cooper. It will contain graphic pictures of the conflicts of the hardy Pioneer, whose strifes and struggles with his Indian foe, rival the tales of fiction and the tragic counterfeits of the mimic stage. Also thrilling narratives of the daring deeds, the heart-trials, the heroic devotion and self-denial of noble women, the mothers of the West! Beneath the over-arching forests, hand to hand, and foot to foot, the intrepid adventurer has encountered in deadly combat the ruffian desperadoes who made their haunts in the backwoods, and his gallant achievements have thrown a halo of romance over the waving prairies, the grand old mountains, and the majestic rivers of the land of the setting sun.

Nor are these pages wanting in those gentler scenes which make up home-life, and which are pictured with all the skill and fidelity for which the author is pre-eminently distinguished. His delineation of Frontier character, and of the scenery of the Borders, has always the advantage of an accuracy which is the result of an intimate, personal acquaintance.

The Work will be printed on fine white paper, in clear, open type, and appropriately and beautifully illustrated by the most skillful artists. 12mo., Cloth, Price, 1.25.

JACOB SNYDER, TAILOR,

The Hero of One Hundred Fits per Month!

I would respectfully set forth my claim to public attention, as a Fashionable Tailor as follows:

Because I keep an excellent assortment of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings and Trimmings, which, when examined, always please.

Because my work is made up in a manner that takes down the country and gives all my customers a city appearance.

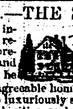
Because I am not inferior as a Cutter to the best to be found anywhere.

Because long experience in my business gives me entire control over it and I am not dependant upon any one to lift me out of the snds.

Because I am still on the sunny side of forty, and therefore my taste as a Cutter and workman unimpaired.

Call on me, in the corner room of the "Brant House." Give me a trial and you will go away pleased.

Altoona, May 26–3m JACOB SNYDER.



Exchange Hotel.—The subscriber would respectfully inform the public that he has recently refitted the above Hotel, and is now prepared to accommodate his friends and patrons in a comfortable manner, and he will spare no pains in making it an agreeable home for all sojourners. His Table will always be luxuriously supplied from the markets of the country and cities, and his Bar filled with liquors of choice brands. His charges are as reasonable as those of any other Hotel in the place, and he feels satisfied they can not be complained of by those who favor him with their custom. Expecting to receive a share of public patronage, and fully intending to deserve it, he throws open his house to the public and invites a trial.

I have just received a stock of No. 1 French Brandy, for medicinal purposes.

Also a large stock of excellent Wines, for medicinal purposes, together with a lot of the best old Rye Whiskey to be found in the country.

BOERHAVE'S HOLLAND BITTERS

THE CELEBRATED HOLLAND REMEDY FOR

DYSPEPSIA,

DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS,

LIVER COMPLAINT,

WEAKNESS OF ANY KIND

FEVER AND AGUE,

And the various affections consequent upon a disordered

STOMACH OR LIVER,

Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, Costiveness, Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave: Because of its great success in the most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medical virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

CAUTION.—The great popularity of this delightful remedy has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations.

HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of plain common sense, they may be able so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enable the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or Bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal.

Diarrhœa, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its various forms, than any other, and the cause of which may always be attributed to derangements of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; then why not use an article known to be infallible? All nations have their Bitters, as a preventive of disease and strengthener of the system in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy people than the Germans, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the above-stated diseases can be contracted, even in exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.

☞ Prepared and sold by HOSTETTER & SMITH, Pittsburgh, Pa., and sold by all druggists, grocers, and dealers generally throughout the United States, Canada, South America, and Germany.

☞ Sold by G W Kessler and A Roush, Altoona; G A Jacobs, J K Patton and W G Murray, Hollidaysburg; and S Berlin, Tyrone. [Aug. 25, 1859–1y

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT.
Read the following Certificates to the Efficacy of this Medicine in Inflammatory Diseases.

"For the last twelve years I have been more or less troubled with Inflammatory Rheumatism, commencing early in the Spring, and lasting until cold weather set in, when I would be relieved for a while, only to be attacked again in the Spring. All my joints would swell and be very sore, attended with the most acute pain. My feet, shoulders, arms, and hands troubled me most, so much so that I could scarcely walk, and almost always required assistance in dressing. During this time I would try everything I could hear of, in the hope of finding a cure. I also tried several physicians, but nothing seemed to help me the least in the world. About two and a half years ago I was attacked as usual, and as usual tried everything to get rid of it, but to no purpose. I kept growing worse, and finally had to give up and stay in the house, where I was confined about four weeks. This time my feet swelled, and were so sore that I could not stand on them or get on my boots, and my hands swelled to twice their usual size. In fact, I was, to all appearances and belief, totally used up. About this time my parents, who reside in Maine, sent for me to come home. I went and after my arrival I commenced trying another remedy, hoping to be cured, but resulting the same as all others. For weeks I had not been able to dress myself or to raise my hand to my head, and suffering the most excruciating pain all the time. One day my father came in with a paper in which was advertised Dr. Coggswell's MEDICAL SALT, for Inflammatory Diseases only, and wanted me to read and see what I thought of it. I read and laughed at it, pronounced it a humbug, and told him that I had been humbugged enough. He kept urging me, and at last said I could but try it, and if I would write to Dr. C., giving him a description of my disease, he would pay the expense. Of course I could not refuse such an offer and sent for one box. It came in due season, but my faith was not increased, and I laughed at the idea of so small a dose doing me any good, and told my wife that I believed Dr. C. and his Salt, both humbugs.—However, I commenced using it and the result was perfectly astonishing. I could hardly realize it myself. I slept soundly all night, which I had not done for a long time, and when I awoke in the morning, strange as it may seem, I was entirely free from pain. I had then taken but one dose, and bathed freely before going to bed. That morning I felt so well that I hardly knew how to contain myself, and went down stairs and told the folks how well I felt, and from that day to this I have not suffered one moment's pain or had an attack of any once dreaded enemy, Rheumatism. I am perfectly well and hearty, and wherever I have a chance I recommend it. A friend of mine, residing in Brooklyn, is now trying it for a bad case of neuralgic rheumatism, and so far it is working admirably.—This is a long story, but I have told all the facts, which I can bring witnesses to substantiate if necessary; and will again say that in the MEDICAL SALT, a sure cure may be found for all inflammatory diseases, and would urge all who are afflicted to give it a trial. GEO. H. DUNCAN,
No. 117 Wall Street, New York.

When it is remembered that the MEDICAL SALT is as efficacious in all other Inflammatory diseases as in Rheumatism, (see descriptive circulars) it will at once be seen that it is a most valuable remedy. Surely those thus afflicted will find in their own condition and in the above statements, enough to induce them to give the MEDICAL SALT a trial.

Price $1,00; Chronic packages, $2,50.

NEW AGRICULTURAL SETTLEMENT.—To all wanting Farms, a rare opportunity in a delightful and healthy climate 25 miles Southeast of Philadelphia, on the Camden and Atlantic Railroad New Jersey.

An old estate consisting of several thousands of acres of productive soil has been divided into Farms of various sizes to suit the purchaser. A population of some Fifteen Hundred, from various parts of the Middle States and New England, have settled there the past year, improved their places, and raised excellent crops. The price of the land is at the low sum of from $15 to $20 per acre, the soil is of the best quality for the production of Wheat, Clover, Corn, Peaches, Grapes and Vegetables. IT IS CONSIDERED THE BEST FRUIT SOIL IN THE UNION. The place is perfectly secure from frosts—the destructive enemy of the farmer. Crops of grain, grass and fruit are now growing and can be seen. By examining the place itself, a correct judgment can be formed of the productiveness of the land. The terms are made easy to secure the rapid improvement of the land, which is only sold for actual improvement. The result has been, that within the past year, some three hundred houses have been erected, two mills, one steam, four stores, some forty vinyards and Peach orchards, planted, and a large number of other improvements, making it a desirable and active place of business.

THE MARKET,

as the reader may perceive from its location, is the BEST IN THE UNION.

Produce bringing double the price than in locations away from the city, and more than double the price than the West. It is known that the earliest and best fruits and vegetables in this latitude come from New Jersey, and are annually exported to the extent of millions.

In locating here, the settler has many advantages. He is within a few hours ride of the great cities of New England and Middle States, he is near his old friends and associations, he is in a settled country where every improvement of comfort and civilization is at hand. He can buy every article he wants at the cheapest price, and sell his produce for the highest, (in the West this is reversed,) he has schools for his children, divine service, and will enjoy an open winter, and delightful climate, where fevers are utterly unknown. The result of the change upon those from the north, has generally been to restore them to an excellent state of health.

In the way of building and improving, lumber can be obtained at the mills at the rate of $10 to $15 per thousand. Bricks from the brick yard opened in the place, every article can be procured in the place, good carpenters are at hand, and there is no place in the Union where buildings and improvements can be made cheaper.

The reader will at once be struck with the advantages there presented, and ask himself why the property has not been taken up before. The reason is, it was never thrown in the market, and unless these statements were correct, no one would be invited to examine the land before purchasing. All are expected to see the land before purchasing, and visit under cultivation, such is the extent of the settlement that they will no doubt, meet persons, from their own neighborhood; they will witness the improvements and can judge the character of the population. If they come with a view to settle, they should come prepared to stay a day or two and be ready to purchase, as locations cannot be held on refusal.

There are two daily trains to Philadelphia, and to all settlers who improve, the Railroad Company gives a Free Ticket for six months, and a half-price Ticket for three years.

THE TOWN OF HAMMONTON.

In connection with the agricultural settlement, a new and thriving town has naturally arisen, which presents inducements for any kind of business, particularly stores and manufactories. The Shoe business could be carried on in this place and market to good advantage, also cotton business, and manufactories of agricultural implements or Founderies for casting small articles. The improvement has been so rapid as to insure a constant and permanent increase of business. Town lots of a good size, we do not sell small ones, as it would effect the improvement of the place, can be had at from $100 and upwards.

The Hammonton Farmer, a monthly literary and agricultural sheet, containing full information of Hammonton, can be obtained at 25 cents per annum.

Title indisputable—warrantee deeds given, clear of all incumbrance when money is paid. Route to the land, leave Vine street wharf, Philadelphia for Hammonton by Railroad, at 7½ A. M., or 4½ P. M. Fare 90 cents. When there inquire for Mr. Byrnes. Boarding conveniences on hand. Parties had better stop with Mr. Byrnes, a principal, until they have decided as to purchasing, as he will show them over the land in his carriage, free of expense. Letters and applications can be addressed to Landis & Byrnes, Hammonton P. O., Atlantic Co., New Jersey, or S. B. Coughlin, 202 South Fifth Street, Philadelphia.—Maps and information cheerfully furnished.
